1 Introduction

This is the second report covering Phase Two: Developing an Environmental Justice Curriculum. The Report covers the period 14 March to 31 April 2015. Attendance records for (See Attachment).

2 The Curriculum Team

Work with the Curriculum team during this period has focused on developing material to introduce the curriculum areas and test these with community members during the 3 day community education workshops which are discussed below.

3 Community Education Workshop

The following steps were taken during April in preparation for the Community Education Event which took place between 5 and 7 May. These dates were chosen because the proposed dates at the end of April fell between two long weekends and community members were concerned about attendance and their ability to mobilise and prepare given the shortened working week.

3.1 Mobilisation for Community Education Workshops

CEs and community members invited potential learners from Veeplaas; Soweto on Sea; Chris Hani-Ramaphosa; and Rolihlahla to the Community Education Workshops. The mobilisation included meeting with the original team and focus group discussion members, identifying possible venues and handing out pamphlets and engaging community members on two separate days to explain what the workshop will be about. A shortage of suitable venues in three of the four communities resulted in a decision to bus people to a central venue.

3.2 Workshops to design material with Community Educators

In preparation for the Community Education Workshop, several sessions with community educators were held to prepare. This consisted of sessions presented by the office staff and critiqued by community educators, collaborative adaptation of the material and the development of a brief supporting facilitation guide, and practice sessions with community educators presenting the material to one another and receiving feedback from the group.

3.3 Community education workshops

Groups from different communities attended on allocated days. The workshop was held at the Soweto-on-Sea Multipurpose Education Centre and started with attendance from Soweto-on-Sea community members, followed by attendance from Chris Hani and Ramaphosa and finally from Veeplaas. The turnout from Veeplaas was slightly lower than expected and was attributed to the weather and potential participants missing the transport. A total of 157 community members attended over the three days.

Workshop participants divided themselves into groups of roughly fifteen people and then participated in exploring the following themes: safe spaces for children and waste in the community. A short film was showed which supported discussion by all participants around how ideas from both themes could be integrated. Finally participants indicated what interested them and added their own ideas about how learning and action within a thematic area could be developed.

4 Curriculum Guide

The Curriculum Guide will comprise the following:

- Learning material in the form of ‘codes’ based on selected photographs from the transect walks; and short technical input; some of this material will be combined in posters that could be used to raise awareness
- A facilitator’s guide providing guidance which sets out the philosophical orientation of this work; its methodology; our journey in developing generative themes and sub-themes or codes; an exploration of ideas on how to continue this journey; ideas for producing and representing community knowledge; notes on the link between community education and community development and organising; and notes on developing and supporting a group that works as an education collective
